WAS PIONEER IN DISARMAMENT

William Penn Tried It
When He Settled In Pennsylvania.

King Gave Him Land to Get Rid of Peace Propaganda.

(By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—That the best part of a century beaver settlers in Pennsylvania conducted an unarmed government and left their doors unbolted at night "because it was safer," is recalled by Violet Oakley, a famous painter of murals, who has for 19 years been engaged in decorating the walls of Pennsylvania state capitol, at Harrisburg, and in the course of her work has delved into the history of the state.

The notes of Pennsylvania history from which she gained inspiration for her paintings she has placed in a portfolio, beautifully hand painted and illuminated. Color reproductions of her paintings on the capitol walls accompany the notes. This valuable portfolio Miss Oakley loaned by request to the library of Congress where it has been displayed. Now she has taken it back to her studio at Philadelphia. It is of especial interest at this time because of the "holy experiment" in disarmament which William Penn made in Pennsylvania.

It has been suggested that copies of the portfolio be presented to the delegates at the conference, and this may be done. It is pointed out by advocates of disarmament that the pictures and story might serve a purpose, they would show that America did at one time offer an honest example, not of limited armaments, but of disarmament.

Miss Oakley regards the "holy experiment" as a message to the world from Pennsylvania, and a valuable contribution to the disarmament question. Quakers, she says, is the keystone to the idea of disarmament.

Her paintings at the Harrisburg capitol tell vividly the old story of William Penn and Pennsylvania. There is Penn as a student at Oxford listening for the first time to a Quaker preaching in a field. The young aristocrat is shown looking with interest toward the earnest, plainly dressed Quaker.

Penn became a Quaker and was expelled from Oxford for his opposition to the religious requirements of the university. Another painting shows Admiral Penn ordering his son out of the house for his stand with the Friends.

When he found no peace or liberty in England for one who aligned himself with the peace-seeking Quakers, Penn began to dream of new land, where every one should be at peace, and weapons should be barred. The trust of the colony was to be placed in the divine spark which the Quakers believed is in every man, savage or civilized, though Penn believed in organized government, laws, reformatories, and night watchmen—armed only with constables' sticks.

In what is known as Penn's prophecy, he wrote: "There may be room there (in America) for such an holy experiment that an example may be set up to the nations; and that it may be the seed of a nation, for the nations need a precedent."

The King of England wanted to be rid of Penn so that he would no longer spread his troublesome propaganda of peace and liberty in England. So when Penn proposed that the king pay a debt owed to Admiral Penn in American land, the king agreed.

Before Penn left England, he had an amusing conversation with King Charles. The king asked Penn curiously how he was going to obtain the good will of the Indians.

"I will buy their lands," said Penn.

"Buy their lands of them?" cried the king. "Why, man, you have bought them of me already!"

"Yes, I know I have, and at a dear rate, too; but I did it only to get thy good will, not that I thought thou hadst any right to the land."

The interesting fact about Penn's experiment is that for nearly a century it actually worked. The Quakers established themselves in the land in the belief that the Indians were by nature trusting and friendly, and according to the stories they were justified.

The Indians were used to promises of justice from the white men, but they were not used to the promises being kept. Penn became known among the Indians as the one white chief who kept faith with the red men. It is recorded that the Indian tribes became so friendly with Penn's settlers that children who were lost in the woods around Philadelphia were commonly directed to their homes by the Indians.

The old story of the latchstring, told in many chronicles, is illustrated in the story of Quaker's mural paintings. The latchstring was left outside at night by Friends as a sign of welcome to anyone who might be passing. On one occasion a band of Indians on the warpath stopped at a Quaker home and finding the door unfastened and the Quaker and his wife standing with smiles and a glowing inside, they retreated quickly.

Penn settled disputes between white settlers and Indians by a jury of six settlers and six Indians, which proved satisfactory to all concerned. All through the years, when the Quaker government was in effect there is record of only three funds being injured in the conflicts between the white men and the Indians. It is recorded that these three, a woman and two men, lost their faith and sought the protection of forts and arms.

The Quaker colonists proved equal to the high standard of peace seeking set by Penn. But outsiders who came into the settlement brought weapons and trickery. They had trouble with the Indians. Penn did not attempt to limit his peaceful community to Quakers and the number of outsiders grew. When there were more of the outsiders than Quakers, and the ideals of the Friends were no longer a dominant force in the community, the control was turned over to the majority element. Swords and guns came into general use. The holy experiment was over.

To most of us who remember William Penn vaguely as a dignified old man who made friends with the Indians it is interesting to recall that he was one of the most daring and far-seeing pioneers of our history. To Benjamin Franklin is generally accorded the honor of being the first to suggest a union of the American colonies. But Penn's writings set forth this proposal—then a radical one.

Penn is also said to be the first to suggest a parliament of nations. Back in 1697 he described an organization which was to be something like the Hague tribunal or a modern international conference at which men of different nations were to gather to discuss their differences and plan for their mutual advantage.

It took almost another century for the colonies to come to the idea of union. Two centuries elapsed before international conferences became popular. It may be longer before Penn's ideal of peace is achieved. That it will be achieved is steadfastly held by those who have faith in Penn as a sage and prophet.

Love laughs at locksmiths, but why should that cause any comment? He laughs at everybody else, too.

KING PETER WAS THE GRAND OLD MAN OF EUROPE

He Disliked Ceremony And Had Contempt For Flattery.

Home Was Plainly Furnished and Servants Were Soldiers.

Belgrade.—Interesting details have come to light respecting the late King Peter, Serbia's venerable ruler and the "grand old man" of Europe, who passed away in this city a short time ago.

During his last illness the King asked frequently for his son, Alexander, who found it impossible to be with him because of his own serious illness, in Paris. He was much attached to the Prince Regent and referred to him as "my little Alek."

He had the fullest confidence in him and during the last years of his life left the affairs of state entirely in his hands.

He had been especially anxious that his son should marry Princess Olga, daughter of the Czar of Russia, but whatever prospect there was for the match disappeared in the murder of the beautiful Princess by the Bolsheviks.

The King died a poor man. Whatever personal possessions he had were lost during the tragic retreat to Corfu in the grim days of 1915, when the German hordes overran the little Slav state. When the correspondent asked one of the late monarch's old friends if the King had left any legacies, he replied: "Yes, a wooden trunk, a bedstead, a few books, a great character and an unyielding memory."

In the latter proceeding, King Peter was one of the King's most cherished hopes that he might see America. He was a great admirer of the energy, industry and capacity of the people of the United States. He felt that Serbia owed a great deal to America for its championing of the rights of the smaller nations, and especially for its support of the peace conference at the Paris Peace Conference. The aged sovereign held former President Wilson in high esteem.

Throughout his 77 years, King Peter was ultra-democratic and simple in his tastes. He disliked ceremony and had a contempt for flattery and compliments. He insisted that his meals consist of only one dish. All his servants were peasant soldiers. His home in Belgrade was plain to the point of rudeness. When well, he always attended personally to the gardens and the poultry.

Like most Slavs, he was extremely superstitious. He considered the number "13" fatal and would never begin a project on Friday. When asked to explain his superstition, he pointed out that if the numerals in each of the great wars of Serbia's destiny were counted up, they would total "13" in each case. The King felt sure he was going to die in 1921, because the numerals 1, 9, 2, 1, totaled "13." His prediction came true.

PRINCE MARY HAS MADE REAL LOVE MATCH

Lord Lascelles Was Popular With Mothers With Daughters.

Is a Millionaire and Is Very Fond Of Sports.

London.—Viscount Lascelles, the 39-year-old fiance of Princess Mary, is tall and slim, with a blond mustache. He has a soldierly bearing; is always well-dressed, a sportsman and a good after-dinner speaker.

Consequently, his contemplated entry into the royal family of England is regarded with popular favor. The courtship of the betrothed couple, according to accounts, has been real love making. They have ridden together in Rotten Row, and have walked together through London streets. Country house parties at which the Princess has visited have included Lord Lascelles among the guests. He was a guest at Sandringham during the recent stay of the royal family there. He went shooting with the King and the Princess accompanied the guns. It was here that the mutual regard established at earlier meetings ripened into something more.

Lord Lascelles approached the King before proposing to the Princess, and the royal parents, like any well-bred family, talked it over with their daughter. Princess Mary soon showed that she was as much in love as the Viscount, whereupon the King gave his consent to Lascelles' paying formal suit to the Princess.

The Viscount won golden opinions when fighting in France with his regiment, the Grenadier Guards. One of his fellow officers says that Lascelles never lost his cheerful smile even in the hottest fighting, the only exception being when he became ran short. "A badly wounded man has a cigarette to bless myself with," he grumbled.

He had successfully circumvented many attempts made upon his single estate by matchmaking mothers and admirers to be regarded as a confirmed bachelor. He was not supposed to be a "ladies' man" and his tastes ran more in the direction of sport. He is a hard rider to hounds and has lately established a pack in Yorkshire, of which he is the master.

Lord Clanricarde, from whom Lord Lascelles, in 1918 inherited nearly £2,500,000, was supposed to be the worst dressed man in the House of Lords. The rent roll from his Irish estates ran into £30,000 a year.

NO OLD WOMEN NOWADAYS.
Modern dress, hair dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep the figure stoops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down does she really look her age. Every woman owes it to herself and her family to keep herself young in appearance, and happy. When headaches, backache or "the blues" develop or when a woman reaches the trying age from forty-five to fifty, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to keep her in health as it has so many other women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper.

WHENCE COMES THE VAGRANT SIGNALS

Despite the most diligent search, experts are not able to say the mysterious "vagrant" signals come at every day, and night, are received on wireless.

From the earliest days of long-distance wireless telegraphy, the difficulty in reception due to vagrant signals has been a vexing problem. The electric waves and at times the electric passing down the receiving aerial have been the bane of the wireless telegraphist. Prof. London university told the Royal Society of Arts. He said:

"Having regard to the fact that the positive atmospheric electric potential gradient of the earth increases at the rate of about 100 volts per meter of ascent, roughly speaking, it is not surprising that aerials several hundred feet high may be traversed by quite large currents due to this cause alone which may utterly swamp the feeble signal currents."

Professor Fleming is the inventor of the thermionic valve receiver, which revolutionized wireless telegraphy and telephony.

COUGHED NIGHTS, COULDN'T SLEEP, BRONCHIAL TROUBLE SMOTHERED HER

Friend said take Hypo-Cod—Doctor Said OK. It did the work. BUILT HER UP AND STOPPED TROUBLES.

"I had Bronchial trouble so bad that I couldn't sleep at night. I'd lay there short of breath and nearly smothered. A cough clung to me like death. A friend said he had suffered like me and been relieved by Earl's Hypo-Cod so I asked the doctor for and he said go ahead and get Hypo-Cod it is fine, so I did, and to-day I'm mighty thankful. "Hypo-Cod worked like magic for me and I thank God for a remedy that delivered me so quickly," declared Mrs. J. D. Board, Charleston, W. Va. Thousands of people have likewise found that this newer, more modern, and powerful tonic does the work days and weeks sooner. They wanted to clear their chest of congestion, bronchial, asthmatic or catarrhal trouble. They took Hypo-Cod and just like Mrs. Board, gained relief. Earle's Hypo-Cod is not a patent medicine. It is nice tasting and highly endorsed by experts. The cost of a couple bottles at any drug store is little compared with results.

WOOD TO HELP FILIPINOS TO AVOID DISEASE

Ordered Circular Prepared for Instruction Of the Natives.

Would Stop "Playing Politics" Against the Human Life.

Manila, P. I.—Governor General Wood has started an intensive campaign to improve health conditions in the Philippine Islands by teaching the people how to avoid and combat the most common diseases which sap the vitality of the country. He has instructed the director of the Philippine health service to prepare a circular setting forth the causes of various diseases and the methods which can be used to prevent them and stamp them out. The circulars are to be posted in public places in every municipality of the islands, and are to be read to every class in the public schools throughout the archipelago.

"We must spare no effort to improve general health conditions in the islands," said Governor Wood. "We must especially pay attention to the need for combating infant mortality. We must avoid unnecessary wastage of life."

Addressing the women's clubs of Manila, General Wood said: "Politics has been and still is being played against human life, but we are going to stop it here in the Philippines. We must have a centralized control of the sanitary system of the islands, one that will act with out political hampering. We need more hospitals throughout the islands, we need more nurses throughout the provinces."

"Two thirds of the babies who die in infancy could be saved. One third of all babies born die in the first year and two thirds of these deaths are preventable. The sanitary system is responsible for many of the deaths. Undernourished mothers form the second great reason for the many deaths, and too much polished rice is the chief reason for undernourished mothers. More meat and vegetables and unpolished rice should be eaten."

Governor General Wood mentioned four necessities for better living:

First: More hospitals throughout the provinces.

Second: More dispensaries in the provinces.

Third: Better distribution of medicines.

Fourth: Additional nurses in the islands.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK

Liverpool.—Stanley Baldwin, president of the Board of Trade, has just told the shipbrokers here that there were more indications of improvement than the reverse in the industrial and financial outlook.

He was advised that in the United States they considered the corner was being turned; in India the bottom had been reached; there were signs of recovery in Japan where the slump was first experienced, while in the British Dominions and South America the feeling was more hopeful.

The thing upon which they put a definite finger was the fall in food prices. The harvests of the world had been good and as a rule plenty of food meant plenty of orders.

In regard to wages, the concessions generally granted had been satisfactory. There was a better spirit and temper in the country and a greater willingness for co-operation and mutual help. If they could get through the next year without industrial stoppage they might look forward with hope and confidence, Mr. Baldwin said.

CHILD PRODIGY WEDS PARISIAN

Mrs. Winifred Stoner de Bruche.

Mrs. Winifred "Sackville" Stoner, who became famous at 12 because of her ability to speak and write eight languages, play the piano, violin, mandolin, and guitar, and because of a suffrage book she wrote at that time entitled "A Plea to Gallant Knights," has become a bride. She was married a few days ago to Count Charles Philippe de Bruche of Paris, a member of the old French nobility.

HATS OF SEA SHELLS

Paris.—Paris milliners have gone down to the sea for their latest inspiration. Toques of sea shells and with just enough black felt to provide a band for the head, are the newest creations of the modistes. Undesecured shells are used to produce unique effects while red coral also forms part of the trimming.

Hears Wise-Rug Case.
Judge Moore was engaged Friday in hearing evidence in the case of C. V. Wise vs. E. T. Rugg, doing business as the E. T. Rugg & company. The case is one of long standing in the common pleas court, having been filed in April 1919 and
now.

Wise is represented in the case by Flory & Flory, while Rugg has retained Fitzgibbon & Montgomery as counsel. Wise is suing to recover
$8,538.00 with interest from March 1, 1919 on an alleged contract while he was sales manager of the Rugg company.

Wise claims that Rugg reduced items on the 1918 inventory in some amount to 40 per cent and so doing reduced his profits from the company to the extent of the amount is suing for. Reductions in the inventory amounted to nearly $50,000
according to the testimony of Wise and his counsel. Cross examination of Wise began immediately after lunch today, the expectation being that the case would be finished late this afternoon.

Never give young children cake,
candy, pastry, fresh bread, coffee, or tough meat of any kind. See that their diet at this time of year is simple. Oatmeal, if properly cooked, is a splendid food. It is done. To make oatmeal have a pint of boiling water on the stove in the top of a double boiler. Add half a tubspoon of salt and drop in gradually a cup of oatmeal stirring all the time. Cook for two hours or until it seems well done. Strain through a wire sieve. Pour over from one to two ounces of milk.
An apple baked for three-quarters of an hour is also good for children.
Stir in spoons of the cooked apple through a sieve. This may be added to cooked oatmeal or may be taken by itself. Potatoes, fruit and poultry products are about double the earlier prices.

RUSSIAN TRADE BEATS LAST YEAR

Opening of Shops on Old Basis Gave Opportunity For Legal Sale.

Foreigner Unable to Under-stand Relation Between Cheka and Government.

Moscow. — Nineteen hundred and twenty-one has been a year of diplomatic and economic battling for Soviet Russia. It brought the abandonment of the government monopoly of domestic trading and gradual reversion to capitalist methods, tempered in such a way as to prevent dangerous splits in the small Communist groups which dominate the government. But the trade for 1921 has been many times what it was in 1920, and the reopening of shops on the old capitalist basis has afforded an opportunity to sell in a legal way manufactured articles which are in great demand.

Hampered by the triple desire to establish trade relations with important foreign powers, to protect the Third International, and to hold the Communist party in Russia intact, Lenin and his associates were in a precarious situation even before the drought produced widespread famine in the Volga area.

Krassin managed to negotiate trade agreements with England, Germany and several minor powers, but the foreign trade commissions which came to Russia failed to find the large supplies which Bolshevik leaders had heralded throughout the world. The concession plan which Krassin and his associates had devised did not appeal to foreign investors. Confidence was lacking. Old owners had no desire to invest more money in factories which had been taken away from them and other foreigners could not be induced to take factories whose title was clouded.

The Bolshevik government lacked the gold necessary to buy abroad and could not find creditors. The government announced it would not import and export business possible for individuals and corporations, under government control. This belated statement came in October. Commissions were working on customs tariffs and 1922 probably will see a far larger export and import trade if the government makes good its promise to release its grip on foreign business.

Leslie Livshart, a British mining man, who attempted to obtain concessions to work the mining properties which he controlled in Russia before the Bolshevik regime, said it would be impossible for him to operate in Russia until the government stops the activities of the Cheka, or secret service, which he insists is stronger than the central government. Russia with which concessions are negotiated.

The Cheka always has had an important part in directing foreign trade arrangements. Many commissions established by the Foreign Trade Council have not been permitted to leave Russia. Foreigners are unable to understand the relations between the Cheka which operates under Unsmicht, and the so-called central government. It is not clear whether there is a dual government, or whether the men who are generally recognized as heads of the government use the Cheka and thus make for improvement, was nevertheless sufficient to justify owners holding lands with small cash rents.

Some striking variations are found in studying the returns from different sections of the country. Cash-tenant farms in selected north-central counties show an average return of 2.89 per cent; Pacific counties, 4.26 per cent; New England and Middle Atlantic counties, 4.49 per cent; mountain counties, 6.34 per cent; and southern counties, 7.26 per cent. States showing the highest averages were Arkansas, 10.66 per cent; Mississippi, 10.94 per cent; Arizona, 8.87 per cent; while those showing the lowest were North Dakota, 2.17 per cent; South Dako-

CASH TENANT FARMS RETURN 3.54 PER CENT

Investigation Is Made to Find Basis for Making Scientific Appraisals and Earn Ratio of Cash to Land Value.

A gross return of 3.54 per cent on the valuation of land and improvements was received by farm owners renting their land to cash tenants in 1919, according to a study of the relation of cash rental to farm land valuations just completed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The new census schedules of 158,000 farms, or about one-third of all the farms rented for cash, were examined. These farms had an average value of $16,850, or $13.67 per acre, and the average rent per acre was $4.85. The gross rent in a single year was about one-twenty-eighth of the valuation. This investigation was made by C. O. Chambers, of the Division of Land Economics, to discover a basis for making scientific appraisals of farm land values, and to learn the ratio of cash rent to land value. The investigator points out that the decline in the prices of farm products this year may result in a lower return on farm land than in 1919. The low rate of return from rents in 1919 was offset to some extent, the investigator points out, by the increase in average acre value of farm land, which, for the United States, has been at the rate of 2 per cent compounded annually since 1880. This advance in land prices, from which deductions should be made for improvements, was nevertheless sufficient to justify owners holding lands with small cash rents.

Some striking variations are found in studying the returns from different sections of the country. Cash-tenant farms in selected north-central counties show an average return of 2.89 per cent; Pacific counties, 4.26 per cent; New England and Middle Atlantic counties, 4.49 per cent; mountain counties, 6.34 per cent; and southern counties, 7.26 per cent. States showing the highest averages were Arkansas, 10.66 per cent; Mississippi, 10.94 per cent; Arizona, 8.87 per cent; while those showing the lowest were North Dakota, 2.17 per cent; South Dakota, 2.52 per cent; and Nebraska, 2.59 per cent.

On the whole it appears that American farm property has been capitalized at a moderate rate compared to the rate investors receive on Government bonds, farm mortgage loans, and good securities in general. In many sections the only justification for the low rate of return on farm property appears to have been the expectation of further advances in land prices.

The low return in certain sections probably tends to promote farm tenancy, since tenants are not likely to buy land at $150 per acre which they can rent at an annual cost of only $5.45 per acre, which is less than the mortgage rate. This may account in part for the large proportion of land operated by tenants in sections of the country where the cash return is comparatively low.

The investigator discovered significant variations in rent returns for different groups of tenants. White tenants paid a lower cash rent than Negroes, Japanese, Chinese, or Indians in the same regions. Negroes paid rents two-fifths higher than white tenants on farms of the same value. This may be accounted for, however, by differences in the kinds of farms which they operate.

New and one-year-old contracts returned cash rentals about one-sixth higher than those that run for longer than one year. The contracts which were over one year old showed returns of 3.67 per cent as compared with 4.35 per cent on new ones. This may be explained to some extent by the fact that one-year contracts are especially common in high rent localities.

The survey also showed that tenants related to their landlords paid only 2.67 per cent in rental, while those unrelated paid 3.43 per cent. This difference might be due to the fact that over-valued farms or to reduced rents because of kinship.

The economists of the Department of Agriculture are endeavoring to reach a basis for scientific appraisals of American farm lands. They find that there is no apparent constant relation between rent and value. The best land in the country returns a high rental as well as high valuations. The speculative motive of holding lands for advance in prices is undoubtedly an important factor in leading landlords to accept low rental income. The appeal of ownership of a farm house appears to be another important consideration.

The importance of land valuation lies in its application in cases where new raw land is being brought into use by drainage, irrigation, or clearing. When new land returns are small as compared with returns on other reasonably safe investments, it may be possible that expenditures for improvements on raw land will not yield an adequate return.

Scientific appraisal of farm lands is needed for both taxation and loan purposes. The mere selling value prevailing in a community is regarded as an unsound basis for appraisal by those investigators. Scientific appraising, they say, must give proper attention not only to selling value but to the rate of return received from renting the property or otherwise ascertaining its use value.

AUTOS BEFORE TRAINS.
The first automobile was built and tested 50 years before the first railroad track was laid. Captain Nicholas J. Gugenot, in 1769, is credited with having constructed the first motor-propelled road vehicle that actually ran. Steam was the power.

19,000,000 CAR BUYERS.
Only about 19,000,000 persons in the United States may be classed in the group of actual or potential automobile owners, according to Leonard P. Ayers, Cleveland banker. Nearly half of these already own machines. A large part of the remainder will buy smaller, cheaper cars, he says.

Pure oil outplayed Phi Delta Kappa in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League last night. The Refinery squad played their best game of the year and are whipping into shape that gives them the old time speed and team work. Vernon struck his stride and made Hoster stretch to lead. The Phi Deltas were "off color" last night. The whole team lacked defensive measures and their ability to shoot was poor. "Boidy" Myers couldn't get going. The Printers drew first blood in their scrap with Heisey and held the lead in the greater part of the first half. Intent on gathering as many baskets as possible the printer forwards slipped in enough baskets to double the score at the end of the first half. Smith made an unheralded appearance and only made nine field goals in the one half in which he played. Final score, Heisey 55, Printers 22.

About four-fifths of these physicians declared there were no instances in their practice where suffering or death had resulted from enforcement of the prohibition laws, and about three-fifths favored restriction in prescribing whisky, beer and wine.

Americans Must Know More About Japan

THE MUTSU

The pride of Japanese naval architects. Reported to have been built largely by the pennies of millions of Japanese children and the voluntary sacrifice of Japanese laborers. Japan is permitted to keep this battleship when the plan of naval reduction is carried into effect.

THE GREAT EMPIRE OF THE PACIFIC

Called into world life by an American Commodore, seizing with avidity upon many new things for its advancement from western civilization, protesting undying friendship for the United States, but struggling with seemingly irreconcilable differences, developed by marvelous leaps into one of the five greatest naval and military powers of the world, and now to become a signatory partner with us and with Britain,

France, and Italy in preserving "peace on earth good will toward men,"---it is imperative for every American to know more about this great Ocean Empire of the East, and to know what has happened in the Seventy Dazzling Years since Commodore Perry knocked at the Mikado's fast-locked door and summoned Japan to take her place in the family of nations. Try to answer the following questions:

DO YOU KNOW

What our "Gentlemen's Agreement" with Japan is?
What is the attitude of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand toward Japan?
How much new territory Japan has annexed in the past 26 years?
How much Chinese territory is under Japanese "influence"?
The age of Japan's "civilization" and how little she owes to Europe?
How extensively the trade of the Pacific is in Japanese hands?
Why the United States is Japan's best customer?
How much of the world's silk is produced by Japan?

DO YOU KNOW

What are the duties of children to parents in Japan?
The average wage earned by Japanese workers?
The extent to which modern labor unrest is permeating Japan?
What Japan's chief food product is?
What is the family status of a mother-in-law in Japan?
Who started Japan on the way to become a world power?
How big an army Japan could raise on short notice?

DO YOU KNOW

That Japan, which had no dealings with the outside world before 1853, is now one of the world's great commercial powers, with the fourth greatest merchant fleet and a foreign trade of $2,000,000,000 a year?
That Japan, which had no banks, no financial system, no credit, in 1868, now has a strong and elaborate financial system with great banks and stock exchanges, holds a billion dollars worth of gold and has such credit abroad that she has been able to borrow over $750,000,000 from foreigners?

DO YOU KNOW

What Japan's naval strength is?
What are the qualifications to vote in Japan?
What is the real business of the Regent?
What restrictive laws has Japan against foreigners?
About woman's rights movement in Japan?
What are the major forces making for friction between the United States and Japan?
What influences seek to increase this friction in both countries?

DO YOU KNOW

How many Japanese there are in the United States?
How rapidly they are increasing?
What percentage they form of the population of Hawaii?
Their number in the Philippines?
How the "Japanese problem" has influenced legislation in California?

DO YOU KNOW

How many years old a Japanese child born on December 31st is considered to be on the next day (New Year's)?
Why a Japanese woman is very much concerned as to whether her horoscope casts her as a cow, rabbit, snake, monkey, or tiger?
What you will see checked, instead of hats or coats, in the check rooms of Japanese restaurants and theatres?

DO YOU KNOW

To what extent Japanese art has influenced Western art?
How far Western education has been adopted in Japan?
The size of the average Japanese farm, and how it is cultivated?

In This Week's Special Literary Digest, a Most Comprehensive Magazine Encyclopedia of Modern Japan, NOW ON THE NEWSSTANDS, All These Questions and Many More Are Answered

The relations of America and Japan are clearly explained. Her growth in commerce and influence since Commodore Perry's memorable visit is set forth, together with a striking colored picture of his visit to the then mysterious land where, at one time, strangers had been admitted only to an enclosure near the shore and kept blindfolded until they were returned to their ships. Full information is provided concerning Japan's Army and Navy, her Government, parties, and politics. There are illuminative articles on Japanese literature, art, poetry, and drama, her life and customs, her psychology, religion, science, and history, and the condition of women, of labor, and of childhood, with scores of other subjects that make this number indispensable to all who wish to be correctly informed regarding Japan.

instant approval from her audience. Her playing in all her numbers including "La Tos de la Fontaine" by Beach, "A Waltz" by Stejowski, and her Chopin group were characterized by variety and richness of tone and were played brilliantly.

Her encore was the Second Air, "Les Feuilles Mortes" by Debussy.

Everyday Etiquette

"Would it be proper for me to present a gift as a mark of my appreciation of the hospitality extended to me during a week-end visit?" asked Charles.

"It is not essential that a gift be made on such an occasion. It is, however, quite proper to do so. It should not, however, be more than a trifle, such as a book, candy, or flowers," replied his father.

Stanley Lee Courson, died January 6th, 1921.

You're gone but not forgotten.
You're in our memories still;
We see your face as you use to be,
Tho' grief our hearts doth feel.

You're gone old pal, You're gone,
You've crossed that boundary line,
Leaving us here to mourn you,
And to follow you, each in his time.

You've entered the Vale of Shadows,
Yet to you it can mean no fear,
Leaving behind your blessed memories,
Which each of us hold dear.

Well do we remember,
When you were with us still,
How much your friendship meant to us.

As we traveled up life's hill,
You're gone but not forgotten.
1-6-1x Sister and Brother.

Falling Hair and Dandruff.
For brunettes who are troubled with falling hair, the following remedy is very good and will have a tendency to keep the hair dark. Put in an iron pot that can be easily covered four ounces of green tea and four ounces of garden sage. Pour over three quarts of boiling water, simmer until reduced one-third, then take off the fire and let stand for twenty four hours. Strain and bottle.

It has been said that if one uses an egg shampoo it will surely keep the hair free from dandruff. To make this use the yolk of one egg, one pint of hot rain water and one ounce of rosemary. Beat the mixture well together and use it warm, rubbing it well into the scalp and through the hair. Rinse the hair in several waters, the last being quite cool. Then sit in the sunshine until the hair is dry.

To keep the hair light make a shampoo by shaving two ounces of white castile soap into one quart of clear, soft water. Place over a slow fire and stir until the soap is dissolved, then add a teaspoon of common baking soda. After the preparation is made, rub it thoroughly into the scalp and hair.

Rinse the hair, then apply more soap and rinse again very thoroughly. Water for the first rinsing should be rather warm. Dry the hair in the sunshine if possible. Brush the hair and massage the scalp while the hair is drying and it will come out soft and glossy.

White castile shampoos use this recipe, rubbing it well into the hair and scalp. Three and a half ounces of Listerine, twelve drams of bi-phenate of quinine and one quart of an ounce of tincture of cantharides.

OUR GREAT JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE

Begins Saturday Morning, January 7th, At 8:30

A TREMENDOUS UNLOADING CAMPAIGN THAT WILL ESTABLISH NEW UNDER-SELLING STANDARDS—PRICES CUT TO THE LOWEST POINT ON WANTED WINTER MERCHANDISE OF FINEST QUALITY.

Of course, you have expected us to hold our Annual January Clearance, but you never expected prices as low as we have made them for the big clearaway sale of winter merchandise that begins Saturday morning. The warm, unseasonable weather left us with stocks just about three times as large as they should be at this time of the year and to dispose of this surplus means that prices must be cut to the very quick. Final dismissal orders have gone out to every department with instructions to cut prices regardless of real worth, actual cost or former selling prices. This is to be a January outclearing of our expertly assembled stocks with bonafide savings of one-half and more,—a sale with but one thought in mind, complete riddance of all remaining winter merchandise. Read on and learn of the wonderful values that await you.
